

SAMUEL GOMPERS' SISTER-IN-LAW IS A. J. MALDEIS' BRIDE

Kin of Labor President Weds New York Man At His Home Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gompers announce the marriage at their home last Monday of Mrs. Gompers' sister, Miss Marion Correll, of New York, and Arthur J. Maldeis, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. W. Barnes.

The bride, who was dressed in white messaline and pearls, was given away by her brother-in-law, Samuel J. Gompers, and was attended by her niece, Miss Florence M. Gompers.

The best man was Marion Pollock. The ceremony was witnessed by a few friends, among whom were Mrs. Belle Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stutsman, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Weyand, Miss Alene Pollock, Clarence Pollock, Miss Mary Boss, and Chris Mullady. The house was decorated in white and pink carnations, and after a buffet supper was served the bride and bridegroom left for a short trip.

Col. J. T. Head Meets Taft for First Time

Col. John T. Head, former member of Congress from Missouri and former chairman of the District Committee of the House, called at the White House today, in company with Representative Hamlin, of his State, to pay his respects to President Taft. Col. Head said that Mr. Taft was the only President since Arthur whom he had not met and known personally. He said that he noted great progress in the beautification of Washington since the days when he headed the committee responsible for the District's welfare.

Chairman S. S. Koenig, of the New York Republican County Committee, is in Washington, and took lunch with the President today. Secretary Hiltebeitel was also in the party. It is of course presumed that the county chairman and the President discussed politics, but just what phases of the situation they reviewed could not be learned.

McMoran Wants Taft. An invitation was extended to the President by Representative McMoran of Michigan, to make his home the Executive's abode while the latter visits Port Huron in September. Mr. Taft said that he could not say at this time how long he would be there nor whether or not he could take advantage of the offer.

Three new ministers will be presented to the President this afternoon. The ministers from Colombia, Honduras and Uruguay have received their credentials and will be formally presented at the Executive Mansion immediately after lunch. James R. Sheffield, a prominent attorney of New York, today asked the President to be present at a dinner to be given by a number of friends of Secretary of War Stimson in New York city, June 9. The President found that it would be impossible for him to attend this dinner.

Declines Invitation. Representative Lamb, of Virginia, and a delegation from Richmond today urged the President to accept an invitation to attend the Good Roads Congress, to be held in the Virginia capital on September 12. Mr. Taft was compelled to decline this invitation on account of a previous engagement.

The President, while in Chicago, will drop in at the Irish Fellowship Club and pay his respects to that organization. He told Representative Madden, of Illinois, today that he would arrange to stop at the clubhouse before he makes his speech at Orchestra Hall.

Representative Byrnes To Address Citizens

James F. Byrnes, member of Congress from South Carolina, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the West Rock Creek Citizens' Association to be held tonight in the Masonic Hall at Tenleytown.

At the meeting, resolutions will be presented looking to the improvement of the northwest section of the city, and the residents will be urged to beautify their yards and grounds.

WICKERSHAM ON GRILL BEFORE HOUSE PROBERS

Tells of His Relations With Steel and Sugar Trusts.

Came Attorney General. It was on three or four, or perhaps five, different occasions. "Did that firm ever represent the New York Cotton Exchange?" "Yes, Henry W. Taft was counsel for the Exchange. I think he still continues in that capacity."

Not Enough Evidence. Beall was particularly anxious to secure from the witness the reason why the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department accepted a $2,000,000 settlement from the Sugar trust, as restitution for the undervaluations at New York, rather than force the payment of the severe penalties provided by law.

Wickersham said that the department felt that it did not have sufficient evidence on which to support a claim for penalties, though he said that it was his belief that the restitution was made because of the fear on the part of the American Sugar Refining Company that the penalties would be held against them. "Your judgment was, then," Beall asked, "that notwithstanding the fact that the Government had access to a memorandum book showing the real weight of the sugar imported, and also to books showing the fraudulent weights, that if the Government had attempted to collect the penalties there was a strong probability of failure?"

Wickersham answered, "It was sufficiently dubious to make it inexpedient to go on. I think the $2,000,000 settlement was the best possible arrangement."

No Immunity. "There was no agreement that there would be no criminal prosecutions of the Sugar Refining Company in view of the $2,000,000 settlement," the Attorney General asserted. "On the contrary that right was specifically reserved to the Government."

"Discussing the sugar frauds, Wickersham asserted that only Charles R. Heike, now under prosecution criminally for abetting the undervaluations, and Henry O. Havemeyer, now dead, could have had actual knowledge of the fraudulent weighing scheme practiced at New York. There was not sufficient evidence, he said, to connect the directors of the American Sugar Refining Company with these acts.

Questioning as to the compensation paid special assistant attorneys general, brought out the fact that Henry L. Stimson, now Secretary of War, had received the largest fee during Wickersham's term of office. Stimson resigned as district attorney for New York, and for his work in the sugar prosecutions, received $50,000. Wickersham said this sum was a fair compensation. He asserted that Stimson had received $10,000 a year as district attorney, but resigned to enter private practice, and that it was only after persuasion on his (Wickersham's) part that he was induced to appear as the Government prosecutor against the Sugar trust. There was no arrangement made at that time, Wickersham said, as to the salary to be paid Stimson.

ACTION FOR INQUIRY AT ST. ELIZABETH'S AGAIN MEETS DELAY

House Committee Hears Witnesses, But Will Await Further Testimony.

Pending the submission of more evidence by Representative Frank Clark, and others who have made complaints against the administration of the asylum, the House Committee on Rules has postponed definite action on the Clark resolution demanding an investigation of the Government Hospital for the Insane and its superintendent, Dr. William A. White.

The Rules Committee heard numerous witnesses at an all-day session yesterday. The attitude of the committee seems to be that a case has not yet been made out against the administration of St. Elizabeth's, and Representative Clark, declaring that he had other data and witnesses, will be given time to further press the importance of a wholesale investigation.

Favors Dr. White's Side. Much of the testimony so far has been favorable to Dr. White's administration. Dr. Isaac N. Kelly, who is to leave the service of the asylum today or tomorrow, was one of the star witnesses in the so-called prosecution, but when lined down by members of the committee was not as specific as was desired in his recital of abuses at the institution. Dr. Kelly recalled that sometimes the food at the asylum was bad, but he qualified this charge by saying that after the matter was reported to Dr. White food conditions were better.

Representative Clark drew from Dr. White that he owned an automobile, furnished for his personal use by the Government. Dr. White denied that there was "but one little weak guard" on duty at Howard Hall when three inmates escaped one night recently. Superintendent White said among other things: "Now, I do not stand here and claim that in an immense institution of 800 employees every one of those employees can be said to be absolutely given to conducting themselves in a manner free from criticism, or precisely as I would have them conduct themselves if they were under my eye. Things do go wrong in a big plant like that."

Defend Superintendent. Brig. Gen. Torney, surgeon general of the army, Scott C. Bone and Mrs. Harry G. Sharpe and Dr. G. Lloyd Magruder, members of the board of visitors to the asylum, were on hand and gave the asylum a clean bill of health, defending the administration of Dr. White.

White admitted that it might be better to confine the criminal insane element at some point more remote from Washington. General Torney told the committee that he was in no way averse to an investigation. Scott C. Bone, who followed, said that the hospital is admirably managed, but that it might possibly be wise to confine the criminal insane elsewhere. There will always be more or less uneasiness in the District, he testified, so long as the 120-odd criminal patients are confined in the rather insecure quarters at Howard Hall.

Fleet to Visit Stockholm. COPENHAGEN, May 31.—The squadron of four American battleships, which has been visiting here for six days, will conclude its stay tomorrow, when the ships will depart for Stockholm.

Dean Asks President To Unite Churches

The Very Rev. W. Moore Ede, D. D., dean of Worcester, England, talked with the President today and proposed that all the Christian denominations of the United States unite in a call to all the Christian denominations of the world to come together in one compelling demand for international peace. Ambassador Bryce arranged the interview. First the visitor congratulated Mr. Taft upon his own movement through diplomatic channels for arbitration, and then suggested to him that the United States should inaugurate the movement for a wider union. The dean said the United States was the country to take the lead in such a movement. He said that if any other country did this, some exception might be taken to it by the continental powers. The President showed great interest in the idea, and promised his support.

Eleven Jurors Chosen To Try Miller Again

(Continued from First Page.) Daniel Johnson, another talesman, who said his uncle had been a depositor in the association, which failed in 1908. Several of the talesmen had other acquaintance or business relations with Miller, some being challenged or excused by the court. Completion of the trial early next week is anticipated, if the jury is completed tomorrow. Two weeks were required to try Miller last year but the case is simplified at the retrial by elimination of thirty-one of the thirty-three original embezzlement counts in the indictment. At his former trial Miller was acquitted upon all but two of the counts charging embezzlement. Miller was granted the present new trial this spring by the District Court of Appeals because of alleged error of Justice Stafford, the former trial judge, in his instructions to the jury. He told the jury that the court and not the jury had the duty of sending Miller to the penitentiary if he was convicted, and that Miller might not be imprisoned, even if convicted. These instructions, the Appellate Court held, tended to prejudice Miller before the jury, and the present new trial was ordered.
